Subject: Cell Tower Reflections

Modernity is and has arrived in Walla Walla. Did it change our landscape? Absolutely!

Some of us, in this neighborhood since the 40s can testify that yes, change is inevitable.

Some of us remember when this area was mostly a few homes and an abundance of cropland. Would I rather not have all these housing developments? Well, it would be more peaceful and a better 'out-in-the-country' atmosphere. But the city is here now.

Of all the changes and problems in the world today, to focus on a single cell tower is wasted effort. So, I say, get over it. Focus instead on doing good for others and finding appreciation and joy in every day.
